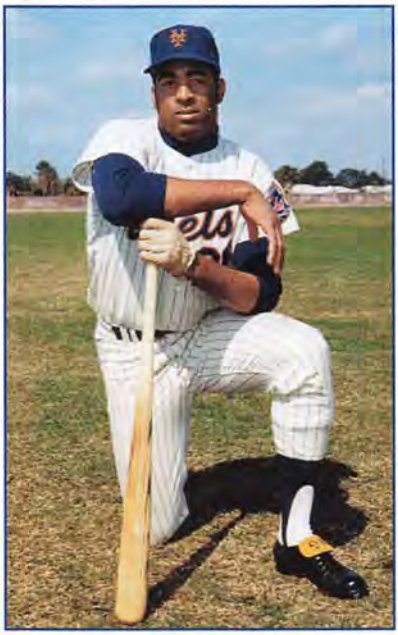
TOMMIE AGEE
(1942-2001)

Gil Hodges' number one priority upon becoming the New York Mets manager was simple, he wanted Tommie Agee on his ball club. Hodges began his job at Shea Stadium on October 11, 1967 and a little over two months later, on December 15th, Agee was acquired from the Chicago White Sox in a five-player trade. One of the major foundations had been laid for the Miracle Mets World Championship of 1969.



"Gil wanted a guy to bat leadoff with speed and who also could hit with power," recalled long-time Mets announcer Bob Murphy. "Gil also knew that with the pitching staff we had with Seaver, Koosman, etc., he needed a guy in center to run the ball down. Things just worked out exactly as planned."

When Agee succumbed to a heart attack at age 58 last January 22nd, everyone in the Mets family reflected upon their memories of how he helped Hodges' club overcome the heavily-favored Baltimore Orioles to win the Fall Classic that year.

During the regular season in 1969, Tommie hit .271 with 26 home runs and 76 RBI, and he was among the Mets' top hitters in the playoff series victory over the Atlanta Braves. But it was in the Series that he really stole the show, especially the Game Three, 5-0 victory.

With the Series tied at 1-1, Tommie led off the Mets half of the first inning with a home run against Jim Palmer. Then came "The Catches", two of the best defensive plays in World Series history.

CATCH NUMBER ONE: The Mets took a 3-0 lead into the fourth inning, but the Orioles put runners on first and third with two outs. Elrod Hendricks, the Baltimore catcher, cracked a long, high drive to left-centerfield. Tommie sprinted toward the ball and finally caught it with a back-handed grab in the webbing of his glove. He then bounced off the wall at the 396-foot sign, the ball still secure, as the crowd of 56,335 roared its approval.

CATCH NUMBER TWO: New York had pushed its advantage to 4-0, but Earl Weaver's club now had the bases loaded with two outs in the seventh inning. Nolan Ryan, in relief of starter Gary Gentry, was the pitcher. Paul Blair hit a deep fly ball to right-centerfield. Tommie ran to his left and just as the ball was about to hit the warning track, he made a diving one-handed grab while sprawled full length on the ground.

After the game, Tommie was asked by the press which he enjoyed more, the home run or the plays in the field.

"That's easy," he said with a smile. "The home run only meant one run; the catches saved a lot of runs."

Spurred on by Tommie's exploits the Mets went on to capture the next two games against the Orioles for the team's first championship.

"I think he was probably the most unappreciated guy on our 1969 club," said Art Shamsky. "He hit all those home runs as a leadoff guy and played great defense all season. Our pitching was super, but we won because of our defense up the middle."

Agee, who played in the majors for 12 seasons, was the 1966 American League Rookie-of-the-Year with the Chicago White Sox and in 1970 he won a Gold Glove with the Mets. Another of his achievements is that Tommie is generally perceived to have hit the longest home run ever at Shea. In the second inning of the April 10, 1969 game against the Expos, he cracked a line-drive into the upper deck in leftfield against Larry Jaster, the only fair ball in the stadium's 37-year-old history to reach the third deck. The ball is estimated to have traveled close to 500 feet and its landing spot is marked with a circle for future fans to see.

Statistics or records set don't truly delineate the kind of person Tommie Agee was and what kind of life he lived.

"Tommie Agee was all about people," said his close friend Jim Plummer, the Mets' Director of Promotions. "His smile lit up a room. On the day he died he was making plans to help Johnny Franco's Charity Bowling Tournament for the March of Dimes. That was Tommie Agee."

"Tommie Agee was indeed one of the all-time great Mets," said Nelson Doubleday, the team's Chairman of the Board. "His spirit and soul will be sorely missed by all."

"Tommie was not only a star on the field, but a star and gentleman off the field," added Mets President Fred Wilpon. "I never heard anyone say a bad word about Tommie Agee."

THE METS LOGO

The circular Mets logo, designed by sports cartoonist Ray Gatto and unveiled on November 16, 1961, has gone virtually unchanged throughout the history of the club. The shape of the insignia, with its orange stitching, represents a baseball, and the bridge in the foreground symbolizes that the Mets, in bringing back the National League to New York, represent all five boroughs. It's not just a skyline in the background, but has special meaning. At the left is a church spire, symbolic of Brooklyn, the borough of churches. The second building from the left is the Williamsburg Savings Bank, the tallest building in Brooklyn. Next is the Woolworth Building. After a general skyline view of midtown comes the Empire State Building. At the far right is the United Nations Building.

AND THE NAME IS...

"The name is METS...just plain Mets."

The name Mets was judged by club owner Mrs. Joan Payson as the one that best met five basic criteria:

1) It met public and press acceptance;
2) It was closely related to the team's corporate name (Metropolitan Baseball Club, Inc);
3) It was descriptive of the Metropolitan area;
4) It had a brevity that delighted copy readers everywhere;
5) It had historical background, referring to the Metropolitans of the 19th century American Association.

Other names considered included Rebels, Skyliners, NYBs, Burros (for the five boroughs), Continentals, Avengers...As well as Jets and Islanders, names that would eventually find their way into the New York sports scene.

1-0 GAMES

The Mets have an all-time record of 96-91 in games that have ended with 1-0 scores...The Mets post their best record in 1-0 games in 1969, when the club went 9-5...On September 29, 1993 the Mets and Cardinals battled for 16 scoreless innings before Jeff Kent's 17th-inning double plated the game's only run...A long evening, but not a club record...That honor belongs to the 1-0 Mets loss on April 15, 1968 when the Mets and Astros went 23 scoreless innings before Houston pushed across the winning run on an infield error. The Mets were 3-2 in 1-0 games in 2000:

2000 ROBERTO CLEMENTE AWARD

During his 12-year major league career, Al Leiter has always had his priorities in order. On the field, the 35-year-old left-hander has established himself as one of the premier pitchers in the major leagues.

Al compiled a 16-8 record with a 3.20 ERA a year ago and was one of the main reasons why the New York Mets advanced to their first World Series since 1986. Leiter, who pitched the first no-hitter in the Florida Marlins history in 1996, won World Series titles with Toronto in 1992 and 1993, and with Florida in 1997. In addition, he has been selected to two All-Star Games (1996 and 2000) and his lifetime record is 106-79.

However, Leiter has fashioned an equally stellar list of achievements away from the playing field. Last October, he won the prestigious Roberto Clemente Award, which is given to the major league player who combines outstanding skills on the baseball field with an exemplary sense of civic responsibility. He joins an illustrious group of modern greats who have won the award, including Tony Gwynn, Sammy Sosa, Willie Mays, Lou Brock, Ozzie Smith, Cal Ripken Jr. and Kirby Puckett.

When Al signed his four-year contract with the Mets in 1998, he pledged one million dollars to charity. Also that year, Al and his wife Lori founded Leiters Landing, a foundation to help children in need. The charitable organization is committed to the betterment of youth through education, health, and social and community service. Leiters Landing also serves as a fundraising arm to assist other children's charities.

Some of the activities associated with Leiters Landing include donating computers to underprivileged schools in Harlem; helping to launch programs where young volunteers work with Meals-on-Wheels to deliver meals to 15,000 home-bound elderly; working extensively with organizations like the Starlight Foundation, which comforts terminally ill children; and personally participating in hospital visits throughout the year. The Leiter's also distribute Mets tickets to numerous youth groups, including Happiness Camping, a camp for kids with cancer, Exodus House, a school for advanced students in Harlem and the Ronald McDonald House.

In addition, Al donated $100,000 to build a baseball field in his hometown of Berkeley Township, NJ.

"What I like about Leiters Landing is that we aren't associated with just one charity," said Al. "We can help kids from so many diverse areas."

In addition to winning the Clemente Award, Al has received the following honors for his humanitarian work:

The Branch Rickey Award
The Joan Payson Award
The Thurman Munson Award
The Sporting News Baseball Good Guy of the Year for 2000

Last year he was also named one of four of the country's Most Caring Athletes in 2000 by USA Weekend Magazine. He has also won awards from the New York Press Photographers Association and the New Jersey Sports Writers Association.

BIG COMEBACKS

Come-from-behind victories have always been a big part of Mets history. Possibly the most dramatic in club history came on June 30, 2000, when New York overcame a 8-1 eighth-inning deficit to overtake the Atlanta Braves, 11-8. In that contest, Mike Piazza's game-winning three-run home run capped off an amazing 10-run eighth inning. The ten runs tied a club record for most runs scored in an inning.

However, the biggest comeback triumph in club annals came on September 2, 1972 when the Mets trailed the Houston Astros, 8-0, after seven innings. Sparked by Ken Boswell's three-run home run, the Mets sent 12 batters to the plate in the eighth, exploding for seven runs and cutting the deficit to 8-7. In the ninth, New York would bat around again, scoring four runs. Cleon Jones' two-run double was the deciding blow as the Mets posted the greatest come-from-behind win in club history with an 11-8 victory.

TWO WINS IN ONE DAY

John Franco earned a save and a win (respectively) in a July 30th, 1996 doubleheader vs. the Pirates at Shea and Armando Benitez saved both ends of a doubleheader on August 15, 2000 vs. Colorado. Only three pitchers in Mets history—Craig Anderson in 1962, Willard Hunter in 1964 and Jesse Orosco in 1983—have won both ends of a doubleheader. Anderson did it on May 12, 1962, beating the Braves at the Polo Grounds 3-2 and 8-7 with a combined three innings of shutout relief. Hunter accomplished the feat on August 23, 1964 at Shea when 1.2 innings of no-hit shutout relief earned him 2-1 and 5-4 wins over Chicago. Orosco joined the group on July 31, 1983 at Shea when he held the Pirates scoreless over a total of five relief innings en route to a pair of 12-inning wins; 7-6 and 1-0.

SHEA STADIUM'S LONGEST HOME RUNS

It is generally perceived that Tommie Agee hit the longest home run in the history of Shea Stadium on April 10, 1969. In the second inning, Agee hit a drive into the upper deck in leftfield off the Expos' Larry Jaster, the only fair ball in the stadium's 33-year history to reach the upper deck.

Dave Kingman had several monumental blasts at Shea, including one that cleared the back fence in leftfield (which is 488' feet away from home) and reached the parking lot.

On September 4, 1998, Mike Piazza hit a 485 foot two run blast off Atlanta's Tom Glavine to give the Mets a 2-1 victory.

Darryl Strawberry pelted the rightfield scoreboard many times, including a moon shot off the Dodgers' Fernando Valenzuela on May 22, 1987. Straw also hit monster shot's off the Reds' Jack Armstrong, July 7, 1988 and off the Astros' Dave Smith, July 19, 1986.

Other big blasts of note are: Leon Durham breaking a window in the player's parking lot off Mark Bomback in 1980 and Bobby Bonilla hitting a bus off Jeff Innis on Opening Day, 1990. Richie Allen also cracked a couple of extremely long home runs at Shea.

SELF SUPPORT

In the entire 39-year history of the club, only twice has a Mets pitcher belted a grand slam home run.

The first one came in the club's second season, on July 15, 1963. Frank Thomas, Joe Hicks and Larry Burright were the runners when Carl Willey belted a drive over the Polo Grounds right field wall off Houston's Ken Johnson. The home run came in the second inning of the Mets' 14-5 win over the Colt 45s, and also represented the first homer ever by a Mets pitcher.

Four years later, on May 20, 1967, Jack Hamilton blasted a bases-loaded homer at Shea off St. Louis' Al Jackson. Tommy Davis, Ken Boyer and Jerry Grote marched home ahead of Hamilton, who connected in the second inning of the Mets 11-9 loss to the Cards.

And it hasn't happened since.

RETIRED NUMBERS

On April 15, 1997 in a special ceremony at Shea Stadium, the chairman of the Major League Executive Council, Allan H. "Bud" Selig announced the retirement of the Jackie Robinson's uniform Number 42 throughout major league baseball.

"The day Jackie Robinson stepped on a major league field will forever be remembered as baseball's proudest moment," said Selig standing side-by-side with Jackie's widow Rachel and the President of the United States, Bill Clinton. "Major League Baseball is retiring Number 42 in tribute to his great achievements and for the significant contributions he made to society. Number 42 belongs to Jackie Robinson for the ages."

According to a news release sent out by the Office of the Commissioner that night: 'Number 42 will never again be issued by a major league club to any player or other on-field personnel, other than those who are currently wearing it. Those who are may wear them for the remainder of their careers.'

Butch Huskey, who wore 42 as a tribute to Robinson, was be the last Met to wear the number.

Tom Seaver is the only Met player to have his number retired. Number 41 was retired in a tribute at Shea Stadium on June 24, 1988.

Gil Hodges number 14 was retired on June 9, 1973 and Casey Stengel's 37 was retired on September 2, 1965.
